The Humane Leadership Approach

Now We Know, Now We Must CARE

- Connect - to our own and other's humanity
- Achieve - all that's possible each day
- Respect - each other, our processes, our goals
- Emerge - into what's next each team member

The Humane Leadership Stack

Humane Leadership Process - Humane OODA Loops

Care | Curiosity | Clarity | Courage

We must start by caring about your work, ourselves, and our people, whether they are team members, friends, or clients.

We must first care about both the first and second human infinities we connect with.

Our curiosity will open us to observe more deeply, collect data more widely, and orient ourselves using new models and metaphors.

Curiosity leads us into the clarity of the scientific method and our experiments.

Seeking clarity about the true nature of our work, ourselves and other humans, the world around us gives us insights that lead to better decisions.

In the end, we must act upon all of our best care, curiosity, and clarity with great courage.

Leaders are the ones who start, who turn insights, values, and visions into constructive next steps.

